What to expect

- Parking: Roadside along the St. Vincent-Sydenham Townline at the field entrance to the River Kwai Side Trail. The reserve has no visitor facilities, so bring water and plan for the full 12 km.
- River Kwai Side Trail: Hikers describe crossing an old logging road, walking about 1.5 km through hardwood forest, then crossing a field and the River Kwai Bridge.
- Bayview Escarpment: A dolostone-capped promontory with nearly 8 km of sensitive slopes and cliffs, crevice caves, exposed bedrock, fern colonies including rare species, and a swamp at the base. Ontario Parks asks visitors to tread lightly.
- Main Trail along the edge: About 2.5 km follows the scarp edge through cedar and hardwood, with broad views over the Meaford Tank Range to Georgian Bay and Collingwood. The footing is broken dolostone cobbles and old cart tracks, and one writer called parts of the cliff edge “perilous”. Keep Zappy close.
- Military neighbour: The reserve borders the Meaford Land Forces Training Centre. Fences carry “No Trespassing” signs, and you may hear or see tank manoeuvres. Stay on the trail.
- Kaboom & Bayview Escarpment side trails: Short spurs off the Main Trail. We found no published description of either.
- Road walking: The last part of the route follows a road shoulder on the Main Trail and then the River Kwai Side Trail (trip reports place this on the St. Vincent-Sydenham Townline). Keep Zappy close.

Distances and junctions are computed from the Bruce Trail Conservancy's trail data (Bruce County GIS). Left/right is calculated from the trail geometry. Use it as a guide, follow the blazes, and check the Conservancy's trail-change notices before you go. Dogs must be leashed everywhere on the Bruce Trail. Trail descriptions draw on Ontario Parks, the Sydenham Bruce Trail Club, Niagara Escarpment Views and a hiker's trip report.
